The Purchase of the Weems Line As was stated in the Gazette, the deal-for the purchase of the Weems Steamboat Company and the Chester River Steamboat Company and the consolidation of these properties with the Queen Ante's Railroad Company was finally consummated yesterday by Mr. Nicholas P. Bond, an attorney, of Baltimore, and Mr. Henry P. Scott, of the banking house of Scott & Co., Wilmington, Del., managers of a syndicate of New York, Philadelphia and Wilmington capitalists. The entire transaction, it is said, involves about $2,500,000. The Weems Line is the oldest steam boat line in the United States, and probably the oldest in the world under one proprietorship. The founder of line lived in Anne Arundel and his descendants still own the fine Fair Haven In 1817, 10 years after Fulton had succeeded in propelling a boat on the Hudson by steam power, the Weems Line was established by George Weems, who chartered the steamer Surprise to run between Baltimore, the Pat-uxent river and landings on the Chesapeake bay. She continued to run until 1821, when the Eagle was bought. The Eagle continued to run until 1824 when her boiler exploded while sh lying in the harbor at Appethis accident Captain lost almost ever-one of the as line and with one . the only one ever injured ce the line was established. Later the Patuxent was built and placed on the Rappahannock river route. The Patuxent was followed by the Planter on the same route. In 1854 the Mary Wasnington was purchased. This steamer ran on the route between Baltimore, Alexandria and Washington during the latter part of the seventies. Afterward the steamers George Weems and Matilda were built. Capt. George Weems died in 1853; but, long before his death, he had given up the entire management of his boats to his four sons, who were engaged as engineers and captains upon tnem, until the war broke out in 1861, when the boats were seized by the government and used as transports. After the war was over the route to the Kappahannock river and Fredericksburg was resumed. In 1895 the steamers plying between Baltimore Alexandria and Washington were purchased. The Weems line got by this transaction the steamers Potomac Sue and Tygert. The business of this route grew rapidly, and other aud finer steamers were built and put in commis-sion, until now the traffic has assumed large proportions. During the summer season the trip between Baltimore Alex-andria and Washington is a popular outi.i.g for many people, who fill the boats on every trip. Several pairs of handcufts were placed upon them, but it was found impossible to keep the shackles upon him.

Electric Light Rentals.

Mayor Paff today received the report of the Washington, Alexandria and Mount Vernon Railway Company of receipts from the sale of electric power for fans and lights. The report covers two months, August and September, the receipts from power being $178.31; lights, $65.75; total, $244.06. The ordinance allowing the railway company to furnish power fixes a tax of one-fifth or 20 per cent. on gross receipts, so the city will receive $48.81 for the last two months. An examination of the reports for twelve months ended September 20, 1904, shows gross receipts as follows: From power for fans, $449.16; for electric lights, $311.72; total, $760.88; the city receiving one-fifth or $152.18.
